Don't Fail to Visit PARKER'S BARGAIN WEEK

The first two days of Bargain Week have been immense, convincing us that the people of this trade territory agree with us that it will be a long time before furniture of like quality can be bought at these prices. We are already in sight of fulfillment—one of our big reasons for these reductions—namely, to reduce our Rug and Bed-Room stocks. Our other reason—to raise cash—has no limit, however, so we are going ahead until Saturday and make this the Greatest Furniture Sale Columbia has ever witnessed. Don't fail to visit our store by Saturday. If you do make we are sure you will soon regret it.

Bed Room Suites

We feel sure that many people in our trade territory are especially interested in our special prices on bed-room suites. During our first two days we have sold several good suites, including two of the three specially mentioned in our two previous advertisements. We have one left, the 4-piece Moderne Ivory suite, $235 at $176.25—a genuine bargain and a duplicate of the $515 3-piece solid mahogany Colonial Suite which will remain $386.25 until Saturday night.

In addition we are offering tomorrow subject to prior sale another red hot special—a five-piece gum wood, 48-inch Dresser, with large glass, chiffonier with mirror, bed, triple mirror, dressing table and cane seat. This is a Moderne Period Suite in the modified William & Mary design—a very desirable suite and absolutely guaranteed in every way. It is priced regularly at $315—now $236.25.

We are still offering over 20 suites during Bargain Week only at approximately the above reductions.

Rugs

In spite of heavy sales our rug stock is still very complete and the same reductions hold good for the remainder of the week.

Have you compared the prices quoted below with sale prices quoted by the two leading St. Louis Rug Houses as advertised in last Sunday's paper. If so, we know you are convinced that we are offering genuine bargains in floor coverings. Buy early while selections are good. Every rug carries our personal guarantee to be exactly as represented at time of sale.

To stimulate general interest we are still offering some very attractive specials. We have a few of those mentioned in earlier announcements. For example: $6.50 Boudoir Lamp, $4.45; $7.50 Smoking Stands, $5.95; $7.50 Japanese Table Runner at $5.45.

Here's the new one for tomorrow: A beautiful rose shade table lamp, mahogany base, double socket, 25 inches in height, 18-inch heavy silk shade with extra heavy silk fringe and 8 ft. cord. This lamp is the equal of many newer arrivals priced as high as $30. It has been priced at $23.00, but goes tomorrow at less than actual cost.....$14.85

Our Personal Guarantee Behind These Goods. Satisfaction or Money Back. Generous Reductions on Everything Except Edison Phonographs

CABLE SHIP GUIDE INVENTED

Makes Possible Recording of Night-est Deviation From Course.
PARIS, Sept. 10.—(by mail.)—Thanks to the invention of W. A. Loth, a French scientist, working under the auspices of the French Ministry of Marine, ships in the future may be guided by electric cable laid along ocean beds. The same principle will also be used in guiding airplanes.

By means of this new discovery, it will be possible in the future for both ships and airplanes in the stormiest and cloudiest weather that prevents the taking of observations, to keep mathematically to their course.

The invention is exceedingly simple. An electric cable is laid along the ocean bed.

Over this cable telegraphic transmissions are constantly sent. In the hold of the vessel is placed a receiving apparatus that picks up these telegraphic emissions and sound waves. These are carried to the cabin of the navigator where the latter can hear them distinctly by means of a special receiver.

The degree of distinctness with which the telegraphic emissions of the cable are heard tell whether the ship has left its course and to which side of the cable it has strayed. Even if the vessel gets many miles out of her course, the sounds are still picked up.

Episcopal Auxiliary to Meet.

Fill your Fountain Pen with Stafford's Ink and forget it.

No fussing with your fountain pen when it's loaded with brilliant Stafford's Fountain Pen Ink.

A uniform, steady flow always on tap.

It never sticks, gums or clogs the pen-point or barrel.

The secret is in the chemical formula which has made Stafford's famous as

"The Ink that Absorbs Moisture from the Air."

Your fountain pen is a delicately adjusted instrument. Most inks are too heavy, too syrupy to flow smoothly through the point escapement. Stafford's Fountain Pen Ink is made for just that particular purpose. Most every stationer sells it.

Cold Frames Solve Problem of Transplanting Indoor Plants

A coldframe is made like a hotbed, except that no manure is used. Enough heat is secured from the sun.

A coldframe is used to harden plants that have been grown in a hotbed, or to continue the growth of certain plants during the winter months. If plants like the tomato are taken directly from the hotbed and planted in the open field they would probably die. They can not stand the quick, great change from warm to cold conditions. If, however, such plants are first hardened by being transplanted to a coldframe they are able to stand a good deal of cold without injury.

Coldframes should be made in the fall so that they will be ready for spring work. It is sometimes well to have two or three coldframes in the garden, especially in the north, as they will save the plants during the cold spell of spring.

In the middle of the day, when the air is warm, the glass or canvas above the frame may be raised. This gives the plants a better ventilation and at the same time hardens them. As night comes on the plants should be covered. Later on the frames may be kept open for a large part of the day, but only when the day is warm. Before the plants are taken up and planted in the garden the sashes should be kept off the frame for several days.

Vegetable seeds may be planted much sooner in coldframes than outside. Thus, tomatoes, cabbages, cauliflower, onions, etc., may be given an early start.

Leaf vegetables, such as lettuce, are better if grown entirely in a coldframe. They may be protected from frost, from too much heat, and from birds.

In many of the Northern states one cannot grow plants in a hotbed or coldframe during winter unless more protection is given. This is sometimes done by placing straw or hay over the glass. Hay mats are very useful for this purpose.

If the garden does not have a hotbed for raising early plants, one should build one during October, when time can be given to it. Making a hotbed is not difficult, but it gives a fine opportunity to show how much of a carpenter he is. Every garden supervised by the school authorities should have a hotbed, and the building of this should be one of the earliest garden duties. If the bed is properly made in the fall, it will be in excellent condition for the next spring work.

In making the hotbed a pit is dug from 2 to 3 feet deep and from 5 to 6 feet wide, but other sizes may be used if necessary. Make the pit long enough to fit the size of the sash chosen.

Place a 2-inch plank 12 to 15 inches wide on edge on the north side of the bed. Then on the south side of the pit place a plank about half the width of the one used on the north side. The sash, resting on these boards, will then slope toward the south, and you will get better results from the sunlight. The ends of the bed are closed with boards cut to fit snugly and soil is heaped up all around the framework to keep out the cold. The pit should be dug and the framework arranged in the fall.

The sashes may be hinged at the top and held up by strong sticks when the pit is open, or they may be hinged on a side and thrown back when the pit is opened. Sometimes the sashes are made to slide in and out on strips of wood set into the sides of the hotbed. The opening of the sashes is necessary to ventilate the bed properly and to allow you to work in the pit.

About 10 or 12 weeks before the time of outdoor planting the pit should be filled with well-heated stable manure. This manure is covered with 6 or 8 inches of rich soil, finely powdered. Keep the soil moist while it is being heated by the fermenting manure. Keep a soil thermometer in the pit and carefully read the temperature from day to day. When the temperature falls to 90 or 85 degrees it is safe to sow your seeds. If the bed has been properly made, it will give out enough heat to grow plants during a period of five or six weeks.

If you can not buy glass sashes, you can stretch strong white canvas across the pit.

PRISONERS DAZZLED

BY JOHN BALSAMO'S

DISPLAY OF WEALTH

From the St. Louis Star.

JEFFERSON CITY.—Prisoners in Cole County jail have not yet recovered from the shock of the display of wealth by John Balsamo, a Columbia fruit merchant, bound over to the federal court, charged with operating an illicit still.

Before his $2,000 bail was found, Balsamo spent one night in jail. In his cell he took an inventory of the money in his pockets to see if he had lost any of it while being brought to Jefferson City.

Balsamo counted out $31,000 in currency, his cellmates say. "I seen him count twenty-one $1,000 bills, and a lot of other coarse money," said one negro prisoner.

After leaving the jail Balsamo sent the inmates presents of fruit and small sums of money.

THREE ACCIDENTS REPORTED

Two Collisions on Hitt Street Yesterday—No Injuries Reported.

Three automobile accidents were reported to the police Sunday. Two cars collided at the corner of Hitt street and Broadway near the Stephens Publishing Company. Two other cars collided on Hitt street. No one was reported hurt in either of the accidents.

Another car was wrecked on South Fifth Street Saturday night. One of the wheels of the car was completely crushed. The pilot had evidently lost control and ran into the curbing, according to the police.
